

As private citizens, individual board members may object to the planning (rezoning, mobile trailer parks, apartment houses, shopping centers, etc) of government agencies for aesthetic or other reasons, but as members of the Board of Education the concern must be limited to two general areas:

1. Does it affect the educational environment of our community?
2. Does it have an unfavorable effect of tax revenues now, or in the ascertainable future?

Examination of a project or change in community structure with the above state criteria should disclose:

1. Whether or not the environment of Orange County would be changed in such a way that education would be effected.
2. Whether or not the proposition would increase or decrease the income of the Orange County School District.

The superintendent or his/her designee shall review all subdivision requests to the Orange County Planning Department and shall refer those that impact directly on the school unit to the Board of Education. Proposed dedications for school sites shall be approved as to location, size and suitability by the Orange County Board of Education.
